EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

BREAKING BARRIERS, BUILDING BRIDGES:

Amid the gloom that recently engulfed us, a light shone brightly in the form of a young man who attempted to protect the people in his care. Although he himself was not in peril, he hoped to mitigate the carnage that was unfolding around him. Some might call him foolish for challenging ruthless killers, but that was the choice he made. The heroic individual neither fled the scene nor remained a safe and passive onlooker; instead, he took a tremendous risk. His noble intervention on behalf of those he hardly knew cost him his life.

I am reminded of an incident that occurred in the US, eight years ago. An American tried to overpower a person, who shot and wounded two Indian engineers. When 24-year-old Ian Grillot confronted the assailant, he was gravely injured. He was hit in his hand and neck (near the carotid artery) as well as his chest.

"Get out of my country," the gunman yelled angrily, as he fired. He was evidently full of hate for those whom he viewed as outsiders. Ian, on the contrary, saw the Indians as fellow human beings. When hailed as a hero, he said simply, "I wouldn't have been able to live with myself if I didn't do anything."

We tend to distance ourselves from disagreeable, let alone dangerous, situations unless we ourselves, or those dear to us, are adversely affected.

The Bible, however, endorses active involvement when it is within our ability to help anyone, even total strangers. "Love your neighbour," said Jesus. Promptly came the query: "Who is my neighbour?"

Jesus responded by relating the story of a traveller, who was attacked by robbers and left to perish. Ignored by passers-by of his own race, the victim was cared for compassionately and competently by a Samaritan. The Jews scorned the Samaritans because they believed that the religious practices of the latter were flawed.

The Samaritans lived between Galilee, in the north of Israel, and Judea in the south. While journeying between those locations, Jews would often take roundabout routes to avoid passing Samaria. Moving beyond boundaries, Jesus freely entered the region and befriended the community.

Let us break barriers, and as the late Pope Francis advised, "build bridges, where others build walls."

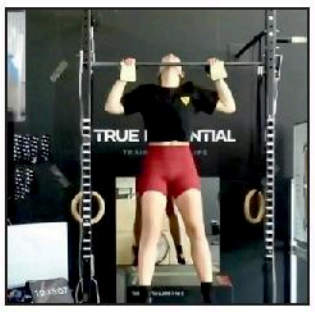
Woman completes 7,079 pull-ups in 24 hours



Sydney: An Australian fitness enthusiast completed 7,079 pull-ups in 24 hours — nearly doubling the previous Guinness World Record.

Olivia Vinson, 34, told Guinness World Records she was looking for a challenge when her husband and coach suggested she attempt the record for the most pull-ups in 24 hours (female).

Vinson said it was only after she crunched the numbers on the previous record, which was set by Polish woman Paula Gorlo in 2021, that she started to reconsider.

Vinson trained for three months before her first attempt, which ended prematurely. Vinson said her second attempt had its own challenges and she managed to complete the attempt with 7,079 pull-ups — an average of five pull-ups every minute.

Doll craze goes to State legislatures

Rio: Videos featuring emotional moments with hyper-realistic baby dolls have sparked both online fascination and political debate in Brazil, with lawmakers even bringing the lifelike dolls into legislatures.

In Rio de Janeiro, the city council has passed a bill honouring those who make the lifelike dolls, pending Mayor Eduardo Paes' signature.

Meanwhile, legislators elsewhere across the country have debated fines for those seeking medical help for such dolls, following a video allegedly showing a woman taking one to a hospital.

Joao Luiz, a state lawmaker from Amazonas, appeared with a doll at the State House to announce plans to ban reborn dolls from receiving care in the State's public health system.

Girl dies at MIMS Hospital due to alleged medical negligence

Parents, organisations stage protest; post-mortem at K.R. Hospital in Mysuru

Mandya, June 2 (KS)- Even before the death of a baby girl due to negligence by Traffic Police while conducting routine checking is still fresh in the minds of the people, a seven-year-old girl has died due to alleged negligence by doctors at MIMS Hospital in Mandya. This resulted in the girl's parents, organisations and the public staging protest against the doctors.

Sanvi

The deceased girl is Sanvi (7), daughter of Ningaraju and Ranjitha couple, residents of Nelluru village in Malavalli taluk.

Sanvi had suffered a fracture on her foot after tiles fell on her foot while playing in the village and was rushed to MIMS Hospital in Mandya for treatment. As doctors advised surgery to fix the fracture, a surgical procedure was performed on Sanvi's foot on May 29 night.

But on Friday morning, Sanvi developed health complications and was shifted to an Intensive Care Unit (ICU) and was being treated. On Saturday morning, the girl was given medicines through Intravenous (IV) fluid (drips) following which Sanvi reportedly became unconscious. The doctors informed the parents that the girl died at night.

But before informing the parents first, the doctors had informed about Sanvi's death to the Police, which gave rise to doubts, parents alleged and complained that Sanvi died due to negligence on the part of doctors.

Evasive reply from RMO: When Sanvi's parents asked Resident Medical Officer (RMO) Dr. Drashan the reason behind Sanvi's death, the RMO replied evasively by stating that the girl had died due to multiorgan failure and asked the girl's parents to get the death investigated if they want.

The parents and those protesting then questioned why Sanvi's death was first informed to the Police and not to the parents.

Protesters urge DC to come to the spot: Meanwhile, as soon as Sanvi's death reached the village, Nelluru villagers, leaders and heads of various organisations rushed to MIMS Hospital and staged a protest demanding justice besides seeking action on erring doctors, the MIMS Director and the Superintendent.

The protesters also said that they would not allow post-mortem to be performed till compensation is paid to the parents of the deceased girl. They demanded District Minister N. Chaluvarayaswamy and Deputy Commissioner (DC) Dr. Kumara to come to the spot and initiate action against the doctors and pay compensation to the parents.

Protesters take MIMS Director, SP to task: When MIMS Director Dr. Narasimhaswamy and Superintendent of Police (SP) Mallikarjun Baladandi came to the spot, they were taken to task by the villagers. The protesters told them that the girl had died due to negligence on the part of the doctors besides stating that there was no guarantee on the lives of those who come to this Hospital for treatment.

Stating that MIMS doctors practice at private clinics and hospitals and expressed anger about no action being taken on it. They demanded an FIR be registered against the doctor responsible for the girl's death.

SP Mallikarjun, who spoke, said that a thorough probe will be conducted over the girl's death, investigation will be conduct against the doctors and action will be initiated besides urging the protesters to allow for the conduct of post-mortem.

But the protesters, who refused to hand over the body for post-mortem, demanded action immediately and continued with the protest.

Post-mortem conducted at K.R. Hospital in Mysuru: After the Police and authorities concerned assured of conducting a thorough probe into the death of Sanvi, the protesters withdrew the stir and said not to conduct post-mortem at MIMS Hospital as the doctors could prepare the report as they like. They said that as of now the RMO was giving evasive replies and demanded post-mortem be conducted in other hospital.

Following the demand from the protesters, MIMS Administrative Board and the Police, shifted Sanvi's body to K.R. Hospital in Mysuru, where post-mortem was conducted and the body was handed over to the parents.

A case has been registered at Mandya East Police Station.

Treatment from interns

Treatment given by Interns (Medical students) has led to the death of the girl. Interns are providing treatment and not specialist doctors at MIMS. This resulted in the girl developing health complications. Which doctor gave which medicine and the reason for the death should be made public.

Two children die in a week

This is the second child's death in a week at Mandya town. On May 26, a three-year-old girl died due to negligence on the part of Traffic Police while conducting a routine check of vehicles. The deceased girl is Hrithiksha, daughter of Ashok and Vani couple of Goravanahalli village in Maddur taluk.

Ashok and Vani were taking Hrithiksha, who had sustained dog bite, to a hospital on a bike when she fell down from the bike and died.

Now, seven-year-old Sanvi has died due to negligence by the doctors.

Probe Panel formed

Mandya, June 2 (BCT)- Following reports of alleged medical negligence that led to the death of baby Sanvi, the Mandya District Administration has constituted a 5-Member Probe Committee to investigate the incident and determine whether the doctors involved were at fault.

The Committee is chaired by Dr. Pradeep, Professor and Head of the Department of Paediatrics, Mysore Medical College (MMC).

Other members include: Dr. Mahesh, Professor and Head, Department of Orthopaedics, Adichunchanagiri Institute of Medical Sciences (AIMS), B.G. Most touching article on Paan hospitality

Sir,

Girija Madhavan's write-up titled 'Rage of the Tempest, Repose in the Raga' in SOM dated May 26 under Mysore Memories column, is most touching and written with rare sensitivity. I compliment her.

Paan is one of the unique cultural markers of India. Except for some regions, it has been popular all over the country. Each region has its own version. There are numerous varieties of betel leaves. Its cultivation requires special skills.

From field to market it requires special skills to pack and transport to keep its flavour, freshness and crispness. The way they are bundled and counted are significant and indicate how creative Indian peasants and artisans have been.

The way it is consumed, the ingredients added to it, the way it is folded differ from region to region. Offering paan to a guest is a sign of warm hospitality. Its absence indicates that things are not alright.

Paan has several ritual markers both on auspicious and inauspicious occasions. The more I learn about it, the more amazed I feel. It is difficult to understand all that without being an insider. Truly, Bharat desh Mahan hai.

It was Vijaya Dabbe who introduced feminism: Writer

Poetess Savitha Nagabushan being honoured with Vijaya Dabbe Literary Award instituted by Samatha Adhyayana Kendra at function held at Rotary West auditorium in Saraswathipuram yesterday.

Vijaya Dabbe

Mysuru, June 2 (BLU&DM)- Woman author Nemichandra said that it was late writer Vijaya Dabbe who introduced feminism amongst us in the 1970s and 80s and the writer promoted it both in her life and writings.

She was speaking at the programme organised by Samatha Adhyayana Kendra to present Vijaya Dabbe Literary Award to Shivamogga-based poetess Savitha Nagabushan and distribution of prizes to winners of story and poetry contests, at Rotary West auditorium in Saraswathipuram here yesterday.

Maintaining that Vijaya Dabbe's voice in her works has remained intact even after decades of her writing, Nemichandra said that the main objective of feminism is to give equal opportunities and position to women.

Noting that Vijaya believed that gender equality was part of humanity, she said that her works were very much representative of the principles she believed in. "Vijaya raised her voice against dowry menace decades ago. However, it is regretful to note that dowry is still very much existent, albeit in different forms, which is haunting us. Nobody can become a feminist just by virtue of being born as a woman. It is based on the core of truth. Vijaya was also of the belief that there were men too amongst us who advocated feminism," she said.

Speaking after receiving the award, Savitha Nagabushan bemoaned that there is not much freedom now for any forms of writing such as poetry, stories or novels. Asserting that it was Vijaya Dabbe who introduced feminism to them, she said it is unfortunate that Vijaya died at a time when feminism began to glow.

Opining that no one will review the poems of women writers, Savitha contended that the younger ones should review the writings of seniors. Noting that structuring poems is just like building a house, she maintained that such a house can become poetry only when there is movement of life in that house. Likening poetry to a narrative, she said that this was like the relationship between a devotee and the almighty.

Veteran litterateur G.P. Basavaraju, in his address, said that Vijaya Dabbe was a woman who never wanted bad things to happen for anyone. There was no audacity or thunder or strong opposition in her literature. Her writings were based on the Buddhist principles of love, affection and compassion. She strongly advocated that the entire world can be cared with love, he said.

Critic M.S. Ashadevi released the book 'Nenapinangaladalli Vijaya Dabbe' on the occasion.

MDA: The Omen

CM Siddaramaiah

The Siddaramaiah-led Congress Government, which is embroiled in a mega corruption and illegal allotment of house sites by the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA), has now put the MUDA into a laundry machine to clean up the dirty, stinking MUDA.

The name of that laundry machine, said to be largely digital, to ensure nothing like the past misrule and abuse of power by both the bureaucracy and the politicians happens again, is MDA — Mysuru Development Authority. My foot.

Marie Curie, who had won two Nobel Prizes, says of individual human being thus: "You cannot hope to build a better world without improving the individuals."

Yes sir, what the Government has done is a cosmetic change. Changing the nomenclature from MUDA to MDA with resultant changes in rules. Well, if rules could be abused once, as in MUDA, the new rules too can be abused — again.

Therefore, it is important to appoint to the new MDA individuals who are "improved", compared to those who were in earlier MUDA.

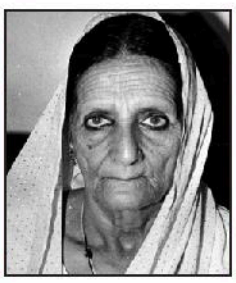
These new officers should be loyal to the spirit of the new rules of MDA and not loyal to the political masters who, unfortunately, remain the same in character and cannot be changed easily. Yes, with the kind of voters we have.

Prior to MUDA, it was the City Improvement TRUST Board (CITB), which allotted sites and houses to citizens in an orderly and transparent manner, free from any taint of corruption. As a result, CITB had earned the genuine TRUST of citizens.

In Kannada there is a proverb to affirm the helplessness of the underprivileged: ಯಾವ ರಾಜ ಬಂದರೇನು ಯಾವ ರಾಜ ಹೋದರೇನು ರಾಗಿ ಬೀಸೋದು ತಪ್ಪೋತೇ! No matter who becomes the king, you cannot escape the drudgery of grinding ragi.

Musings on 'Heart Lamp'

Banu Mushtaq



Shah Bano

Taslima Nasrin

The Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Act, 1986 fortuitously raised the crucial question about the maintenance of Muslim personal law, as it has led to a clash between Personal Law and a Uniform Civil Code, enunciated in our Secular Constitution. Time, Narendra Modi's BJP Government brought in the Uniform Civil Code before its term ends in 2029.

A review of the International Booker Prize winning book 'Heart Lamp' by a Kannadiga writer Banu Mushtaq has appeared in Star of Mysore yesterday. It was written by Ravi Joshi, who says the book questions the patriarchy, the male chauvinism, in Muslim families and the struggle of Muslim women for freedom and power.

I have read so far four out of the 12 stories in the book. My perception is that the stories are too poignant and even depressing to the extent I wondered if facts are carried too far to make them stranger than the fiction. The narrative seems unrealistic. Reading the book was a soul-searing experience and one would probably suffer the pain of the protagonists vicariously.

With this preamble to the book, I must indeed thank a million times, on behalf of my sisters described in the novel and others in the community of the author, the BJP government at the Centre for a law it passed in the Indian Parliament on July 30, 2019, to make instant triple talaq (divorce) a criminal offence.

Wonder, if Banu Mushtaq's Kannada book on this subject published early 2002 had acted as a catalyst and triggered the BJP government in 2019 to bring in the law to undo the evil of instant talaq. This law of salvation for Muslim women is known as Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Marriage) Bill, 2019.

Be that as it may, I cannot help remembering the merciless, unfeeling, pitiless Shah Bano case of 1978-1980. In simple words, it was a case filed for maintenance by a divorced Muslim woman Shah Bano. The matter went up to the Supreme Court which decided in favour of the helpless, hapless Shah Bano, the old, lonely lady.

However, the All India Muslim Personal Law Board (AIMPLB), a non-governmental organisation created by Mrs. Indira Gandhi in 1973, cried foul. Protests were held across the country. A group of protesters had come to Mysuru also and held a meeting at the small Hall of Institution of Engineers on JLB Road. As a result, the Rajiv Gandhi government undid Shah Bano's victory by passing the law, the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Act in 1986.

This Act, fortuitously, raised the crucial question about the maintenance of Muslim personal law, as it has led to a clash between Personal Law and a Uniform Civil Code, enunciated in our Secular Constitution. Time, Narendra Modi's Government brought in the Uniform Civil Code before its term ends in 2029.

I also remembered another case in this context. That of Taslima Nasrin, a Bangladeshi writer whose book 'Lajja' created a storm in Bangladesh in 1993 and she was exiled. She was not allowed to live even in a Secular country like India. She was literally driven away from West Bengal of Secular India. She now holds Swedish citizenship, according to Google.

Geospatial land survey training for ULB Officers begins at ATI

Mysuru, June 2 (RK&BCT)- The second phase of capacity-building training under the NAKSHA (NAtional geospatial Knowledge-based land Survey of urban HAbitations) programme commenced this morning at the Administrative Training Institute (ATI) on Lalitha Mahal Road in Mysuru.

This week-long training is being conducted simultaneously at five Centres of Excellence (CoEs) across the country, with ATI being one of the designated centres.

With India's urban population projected to cross 600 million by 2031, the need for accurate, verifiable and easily accessible land records has become critical. The NAKSHA programme aims to address this challenge through a bold, technology-driven approach.

Over 27 Assistant Director of Land Records (ADLR)-level officers from Karnataka, Kerala, Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, and Puducherry are participating in the training sessions, which are being conducted by more than 20 expert trainers.

Today's session focused on geospatial technologies in land governance and the legal and institutional frameworks enabling geo-referenced land records. It was led by S.P. Prakyathkumar, ADLR, Channapatna.

The first phase of the programme, aimed at training 160 master trainers from participating NAKSHA States and Union Territories, was completed last month. The objective is to promote precision land surveys using advanced technology to resolve the large number of land disputes pending in courts for decades.

As part of this training initiative, 304 officers from 157 Urban Local Bodies (ULBs) have been nominated for hands-on sessions. These officers will be trained in leveraging modern geospatial tools for effective urban property surveys.The programme aims to equip ULB officers and field staff with both technical and practical skills necessary to conduct high-accuracy land surveys under the NAKSHA framework.

Training modules include an overview of the programme framework, GNSS and Electronic Total Station (ETS)-based surveying, Web-GIS applications, land parcel mapping, and the legal and administrative dimensions of land surveys.

Implemented by the Department of Land Resources (DoLR) in collaboration with the Survey of India, National Informatics Centre Services Inc., Madhya Pradesh State Electronics Development Corporation (MPSeDC), and five Centres of Excellence, NAKSHA is currently being piloted in 157 ULBs across 27 States and three Union Territories.

Besides ATI Mysuru, the other training centres are: Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration (LBSNAA), Mussoorie, Yashwantrao Chavan Academy of Development Administration (YASHADA), Pune, Northeast Region Centre of Excellence, Guwahati and Mahatma Gandhi State Institute of Public Administration (MGSIPA), Chandigarh.

Classical Kannada Centre still awaits autonomy

"The Centre has a Project Director, 11 academic staff and 8 administrative personnel. Over the years, it has organised several programmes and published important scholarly works. But without autonomy and dedicated facilities, its functioning remains limited," Mysuru-Kodagu MP Yaduveer stated.

Drawing a comparison, the MP noted that Tamil, which was accorded classical status in 2004, received autonomy for its research centre by 2008. Kannada, granted classical status in 2008, remains neglected in this regard.

Yaduveer highlighted that the University of Mysore Syndicate has already earmarked 4 acres and 2 guntas of land near the Pump House (in front of Basavapeetha) for the Centre's expansion. The Karnataka Government had also issued an order in 2020 for land allocation, but further steps have yet to be taken.

He urged the Central Education Ministry and the Higher Education Department to release funds for constructing a dedicated building and providing world-class facilities to CESCK. "This is not merely about infrastructure; it's about giving Kannada the institutional recognition it rightly deserves," the MP's letter stated.

Rs. 100-crore Rail Container Depot at Kadakola lies idle

Central Customs Department yet to clear operations, even a year after inauguration

By Bapu Lingaraj Urs

Mysuru, June 2- The much-anticipated Inland Container Depot (ICD) at Kadakola near Nanjangud — built at a cost of Rs. 100 crore by the Container Corporation of India (CONCOR) — remains non-functional even a year after its inauguration, owing to the apathy of the Central Government's Customs Department.

Despite Prime Minister Narendra Modi virtually inaugurating the facility and the depot being fully equipped with direct rail connectivity and infrastructure built to CONCOR standards, operations have not begun due to the Customs Department's failure to grant the necessary approvals.

This bureaucratic delay has left the industrial sector in and around Mysuru deeply frustrated. The facility was intended to serve as a key logistics hub to streamline import and export processes for hundreds of industries in the region.

Export activity from Mysuru has shown a consistent upward trend. In 2022-23, the district exported goods worth Rs. 6,300 crore, and the figure rose to Rs. 7,000 crore in 2023-24. Nearly 40 percent of these exports are from small and micro industries. Imports, too, have steadily grown alongside.

Major companies like Asian Paints, J.K. Tyre, Rishi Cables and Plastic Materials, and Nestle are among those actively exporting from the region. However, in the absence of a functioning ICD, industrial goods continue to be transported to Chennai, Kochi, and Mangaluru for customs clearance, incurring massive logistical costs and delays.

More than 180 export-oriented industries in Mysuru district had pinned hopes on the Kadakola ICD to ease their shipping burdens. Yet, not a single consignment has been cleared through the facility, leaving the vast yard deserted since its inauguration.

Local industrialists are now raising the alarm over the prolonged inaction. "We were promised faster processing, reduced costs, and local customs clearance. Instead, we've been left with a white elephant," one industry representative remarked.

If operations begin, the area would also see the establishment of a full-fledged Customs House, bringing in officers, support staff, and auxiliary services, giving a boost to local employment and infrastructure.

But with no movement from the Customs Department, the Rs. 100-crore facility stands as a stark symbol of red tape throttling industrial progress.

'Customs Department officials to visit soon'

There is strong demand for export and import operations at the Kadakola Container Yard and industrialists are eagerly awaiting its commencement. However, the Customs Department is yet to issue the necessary clearance notification. Since it functions under the Union Finance Ministry, certain procedural steps must be completed. A team from the Customs Department in Delhi will visit the site after verifying the submitted documents.

Only after this inspection will legal formalities be finalised, including trade standards, permitted goods categories, regulations and applicable duties. Once these are cleared, full-fledged operations will be authorised. Notably, due to the existing rail connectivity, over seven tonnes of cement have already been imported. If the yard becomes fully operational, many more businesses will join in export and import activities.

—Vijay Kumar, Deputy General Manager, Container Corporation of India

'Bearing the brunt of bureaucratic inertia'

Due to delays in starting operations at the Kadakola Container Yard, massive investments made here has become unproductive. For over a year, there have been only losses — not a single rupee in returns. Had the yard been functional, the local customs office could have handled export-import clearance directly. Instead, industries are still forced to rely on faraway ports in Chennai, Kochi, or Mangaluru.

At the Government level, it's just one approval that's pending. But the delay in moving documents from one department to another has stalled the process. Files don't come with bearings or wheels — they only move when pushed. Without customs clearance, industries here are bearing the brunt of bureaucratic inertia.

—Suresh Kumar Jain, General Secretary, Mysuru Industries Association

Don't view Kamal Haasan's statement through emotional lens: Actor Kishore

Mysuru, June 2 (MK&VNS) - Actor Kishore Kumar yesterday urged people not to interpret Kamal Haasan's recent remarks on the Kannada language emotionally, stating that such discussions should be approached intellectually rather than sentimentally.

Reacting to the veteran actor's statement that "Kannada was born out of Tamil," Kishore said, "There is no need to consider the statement offensive. Instead, it would be more meaningful to examine the context and intent, especially given Kamal Haasan's intellectual calibre."

He added that language, like caste and religion, has often been used for political mileage, and cautioned against allowing such issues to stir public sentiment.

"Language should be seen for what it is — a medium of communication — and not something to be emotionally entangled with. No one should feel insulted if one language is said to have emerged from another. There is still no definitive research on how languages evolved," Kishore said.

Using a metaphor, he added, "If a child is born to a mother, where is the humiliation — either to the mother or the child? Just like all other languages, both Kannada and Tamil have emerged from somewhere. Let's not disturb people's emotions unnecessarily."

On 'Operation Sindoor'

When asked about the recent Pahalgam terror incident and the response under 'Operation Sindoor,' Kishore remarked that such operations often seem to be executed more within the country than outside.

"The voices of the media are being stifled. Rather than politicising the Pahalgam attack, we should focus on seeking the truth and demanding accountability. We don't yet have full details of what happened. In a democracy, asking questions is fundamental. We're already blind to caste and religion — but we cannot afford to be blind when it concerns the nation," he asserted.

Kishore was in Mysuru to perform in the Kannada play 'Love Letters: Ninna Preetiya Naanu' at Kiru Rangamandira in Kalamandira premises on May 31. The play, directed by Venkatesh Prasad, was staged by the Theatre Collective Institute from Bengaluru.

WORD OF THE DAY

Proscribe

Pronunciation: proh-SCRYBE (Verb)
Meaning: Proscribe is a formal word meaning "to condemn or forbid something as harmful or unlawful." More broadly, it can mean simply "to not allow something."
Origin: Signs, signs, everywhere, signs: some prescribe ("do this") and others proscribe ("don't do that"). Don't take it as a bad sign if you have difficulty telling prescribe and proscribe apart, however; you've got plenty of company, and a good excuse. Proscribe and prescribe both come from Latin words that combine a prefix meaning "before" with the verb scribere, meaning "to write." Yet the two words have very distinct, often nearly opposite meanings, hints of which emerge upon a closer look at their origins. Prescribe comes from praescribere, meaning "to dictate, order"— clear enough for a word used when making rules and giving orders. Proscribe has a more complex history: proscribere means both "to publish" and, more specifically, "to publish the name of someone who is condemned to death and whose property is now forfeited to the state." This narrower meaning is the one proscribe carried into English when it was first used in the 15th century. By the early 17th century, the word had expanded from merely signaling condemnation to actual condemning or prohibiting.
Example: "While the order proscribes new drilling along most of both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, the order does not affect active drilling permits and carves out the most important areas of offshore production such as the western Gulf of Mexico near Texas and Louisiana." —Jeff Young, Newsweek, 6 Jan. 2025.

THE ODD WORD

Pulchritudinous

Physically beautiful

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Feeding Frenzy

Meaning: The phrase 'Feeding Frenzy' is used to describe a period of excited activity by a group, particularly around a certain focal point.
Origin: The term 'feeding frenzy' was originally used to describe a shark attack. It was coined in the mid-20th century.
Example: "The media had a feeding frenzy when the murder suspect was caught red-handed."

Staging of play 'Robi's Garden' and book launch on June 8

Mysuru, June 2- The Lions Club of Mysore West presents an evening of literature and theatre with internationally acclaimed playwright and theatre director Vijay Padaki on June 8 (Sunday) at 4.30 pm at Lions Sevaniketan School, 5th Cross, Gokulam 3rd Stage, Mysuru.

Vijay Padaki will launch two volumes of his newly published short stories collection books (The First Offering and The Last Cheetah), which feature a delightful range of characters and a captivating variety of storylines, showcasing his hallmark wit and narrative flair. Maj. Gen. (Retd.) S.G. Vombatkere and Ravi Joshi, former Joint Secretary, Cabinet Secretariat, will be the guests of honour. City-based author Sujata Rajpal will be in conversation with Vijay Padaki.

The book launch will be followed by a theatre performance of 'Robi's Garden' by Vijay Padaki and Minti Jain. This production is part of Bangalore Little Theatre's (BLT) signature Courtyard Theatre series, an initiative staging fully rehearsed, minimalist plays performed by just two actors, without elaborate sets. 'Robi's Garden' is inspired by the humorous writings of Rabindranath Tagore (Robi-da). Admission is free. For details, contact Mob: 98864-06726.

Vijay Padaki is a psychologist and behavioural scientist by training and a theatre educator by passion. He was a member of the founding faculty at Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore, Director of a Centre for Management for the textile industry in Ahmedabad, and a visiting Professor at Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore. Recipient of Lifetime Achievement Award from ASSITEJ International. (International Association of theatre for Children and young people), Vijay Padaki has been active in theatre for over sixty years. He has written over 50 plays and translated over a dozen other play scripts.

Bangalore Little Theatre (since 1960) is Bangalore's oldest and most widely respected theatre society. It is a membership-based organisation, with a highly participatory form of management. BLT has a strong reputation in translations and adaptations, and in promoting new play writing activity. Its enduring commitment to outreach activity has led to education and training initiatives, working with schools, colleges and other institutions.
